

My Favorite Products — Susan Gottlieb likes Dr. Bronner's, Begley's Best, Seventh Generation and If You Care

1GREENPRODUCT.COM IS PLEASED to present the product recommendations of Susan Gottlieb, co-owner with her husband Daniel of the G2 Gallery.

The G2 Gallery strives to support both art and the environment by presenting work from celebrated nature and wildlife photographers.

The gallery also says that it donates all profits from art sales to a bevy of worthwhile environmental causes.

Susan, a nature photographer herself, recommends the followign eco-friendly products:

For many years, we have used Dr. Bronner's soaps for dishwashing and general cleaning. [Ed. note — Dr. Bronner's says all its soaps are now both Organic and Fair Trade certified.]

In recent years, we have also been using Begley's Best cleaning products.

We started ordering products from the Seventh Generation catalogue years before their products were carried in Whole Foods and other eco-conscious stores. Today, we're still using their laundry products.

We never use pesticides or fertilizers in our garden. We use a drip system for watering, and we only buy native California plants from The Theodore Payne Foundation in Sun Valley, California.

For many household cleaning jobs including window cleaning, we just use vinegar.

When making coffee, we choose unbleached If You Care filters.
